F O R E W O R D

This book ends with 1900. It is impossible to say "The pioneer era ends at ____." Most of Central and Eastern Oregon weren't settled <sup>until</sup> after 1900. It is not my intention to quit with the year 1900, rather to go on to other valueable information from Gilliam County that is also of historical and genealogical value. One interesting side note - perhaps owing to the solidifying of these former sheep camps into permanent communities. In the beginning of the marriage list, almost every marriage was performed by a Justice of the Peace or other qualified official. By 1900, more and more of the marriages were performed by ministers.

GILLIAM COUNTY INFORMATION

Formed in 1885

Gilliam County was organized from Wasco County. It was named for Colonel Cornelius Gilliam, veteran of the Cayuse War. The first county seat was at Alkali, now Arlington on the Columbia River. After the General Election of 1890 the county seat was moved to Condon. The county records were housed in a two-roomed building in Condon until 1903, when a new brick courthouse was built. This building was destroyed by fire on October 11, 1954. All county records were saved except for some of the records of the County school Supt.

There is now a new modern, fireproof courthouse on the old site, Gilliam County is truly a land of wheat and cattle. Its topography varies from 225 feet at Arlington to over 3,000 near Condon, a distance of 38 miles.
