"Marriage Record Book I Jan 1855 to Aug 1865" is on file in the Multnomah County Court House at Portland, Oregon in Room 225. (August 1970) At the time the records were begun, Multnomah was a very new County, having been formed 22 December 1854. (For complete information on formation of counties in Oregon, see the series of maps in the front of "Genealogical Material in Oregon Donation Land Claims" Volume I, Abstracted from Applications by Genealogical Forum of Portland, Oregon 1957). Oregon became a state on 14 February 1859, but it will be noted that it was some time after this before the records indicated this fact. The records, so far abstracted, appear to have all been entered by the same person, but at some times he must have been in a hurry, for the entries, especially names, are difficult to read; at other times, his penmanship was quite careful. It may have been that he wrote more illegibly when what he was given to copy was difficult to read.

After Oregon became a state, there are almost always two dates given - the date of the ceremony and the date when the record of the ceremony was filed. Before statehood, there are only a few records with the two entries of dates. It should be remembered that, at this early date, there was no bridge across the Willamette River. It seems likely that ministers or JP's, who were some distance from the court house, would sometimes wait for better weather or other business, before making the trip. It appears that an occasional lapse of memory may have been the reason for some delayed returns, as in the case of one marriage clearly written Oct 1858, but not recorded until after March 1859.

Several records omitted the names of witnesses; in one case, the record begins "I, the undersigned Minister of the Gospel" but omits the name of the minister. One entry is lacking a date for the ceremony but does have a date when the record was filed. An early Jewish ceremony gives the date in the Jewish month only. Names of officiants-ministers or justices of the peace-are not always spelled the same from record to record. Many names, familiar to Portlanders, are not always spelled as we know them (Bibee for Bybee, etc.) but an attempt has been made to copy the record "as it is".

It is regrettable that no ages are given but where the consent of one of the bride's parents was given, it can be assumed that the bride was not of legal age. In abstracting these records, an attempt has been made to include all details of interest to the genealogist. If the information is given, place of ceremony, place of residence, or other data are included in this abstract. It is believed that the records are of more interest in the order in which they are recorded so that is the order in which they will be printed. There is an index (which did not always agree with our reading) in the front of the record book, by first letter of the surname of brides and grooms.

If the information can be obtained, we intend to print brief sketches of the officiants of these ceremonies.
